Raptor Rendezvous Returns to Brasstown Bald & Anna Ruby Falls

Hiawassee, GA — 4/18/26 — Towering above the expanse of the Chattahoochee-Oconee National Forest, Brasstown Bald is Georgia's highest peak at 4,784 feet. The 360-degree observation deck gives guests a bird's eye view of the Blue Ridge mountains, and the surrounding skies hold an equally captivating spectacle: the soaring presence of Georgia's birds of prey.

More than 130 species of birds call Northeast Georgia home, including 25 raptors, carnivorous birds that play a vital role in balancing our ecosystems. Though often seen at a distance, it's a rare opportunity to stand eye-to-eye with these remarkable hunters. That's why FIND Outdoors is thrilled to welcome Georgia Mountain Falconry once again to Brasstown Bald on Saturday, April 18th for Raptor Rendezvous, a live demonstration that brings eagles, owls, hawks, falcons, and some surprise guests within arm's reach. Visitors will learn about the ancient art of falconry still in practice today, as well as how these powerful birds contribute to our forest's health. FIND Outdoors is grateful to Wild Tribute for their sponsorship efforts in making this event possible.

This event is free with the cost of admission to Brasstown Bald and runs from 10:00 AM to 4:00 PM. Guests are encouraged to bring their cameras, curiosity, and sense of wonder, but please, no pets. Brasstown Bald is located at 2941 State Hwy 180 Spur, Hiawassee, GA 30546.

FIND Outdoors and Georgia Mountain Falconry are thrilled to offer this incredible experience at both Brasstown Bald and Anna Ruby Falls. Guests have the chance to be a part of this wildlife encounter on April 18th at Brasstown Bald, and on May 2nd at Anna Ruby Falls.
